

The 13th Taiwan-Japan Joint Workshop for Young Scholars in Applied Mathematics

3/1-2 R515, Cosmology Building, NTU+Online

3/3 R505, Cosmology Building, NTU

Aim and Scope:

This conference has been held 12 times in Taiwan and Japan on a rotating basis, with a long history and tradition. Due to its outstanding results, the number of young lecturers (graduate students and postdocs) has grown from about 20 to 40-50, and it has also cultivated many young scholars in the academic community. Due to the impact of the pandemic, the last conference was successfully held online with the assistance of NCTS. We expect this year's conference to be held at NCTS. The conference committee is composed of scholars from Taiwan and Japan in the fields of partial differential equations, mathematical biology, mathematical modeling, and other applied mathematics. This conference will be hosted and presented by students, providing them with an opportunity to improve their English skills, expand their international perspective, and establish an international academic exchange platform for young scholars.
