Aim & Scope

The "2024 NCTS South Taiwan Workshop on Scientific Computing, Differential Equations, and Applications" is scheduled for March 30, 2024, at the National University of Kaohsiung. This workshop consists of a 70-minute and seven 35-minute presentations and it has been a recurring event since 2010. The aim of this annual workshop is to bring together researchers in south Taiwan across diverse fields related to scientific computation and differential equations and serve as a platform for participants to engage in discussions about recent advancements and potential future developments in their respective research areas.
